

Accumulator

active

Look to rocket science to put the fizz into a classic team challenge!

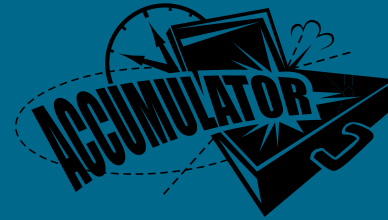

As part of a determined team of international spies, the hunt is on to find the elusive rocket fuel and detonating equipment to launch your 'space rocket'! At your disposal, and vital to your success, is the Accumulator Case - precision packed with an array of espionage equipment, items that no spy should be without!

The rocket components are located at various sites, and only with the ingenious use of an item from the Accumulator briefcase will you be able to decipher the task and stay on the scent. However, you are not alone in this quest! Other teams, equally determined, will also be tracking their way around the area, also trying to gather the needed components for their rocket.

Once teams have accumulated - by fair methods or devious payments - all that they need to launch their rocket, the launch site will be revealed. This will accumulate in a spectacular lift off by all the completed rockets.

As the teams get into the swing of Accumulator, it will soon become apparent that all is not what it seems. The direct competition between the teams will become blurred when they find they are against the clock, and actually need to communicate and co-operate in order to progress.

Either everyone wins or no-one does - it is up to you!

key business benefits
supports strategic planning develops networking skills visualising the future promotes problem solving reinforces creative thinking numbers

10 - 300

time

2 - 4 hours

location

indoors
& outdoors

approach

competitive
and collaborate